*It was easy then to tell what was fair
what to keep and what to share
how much to protect your heart
and how much to care*

It's never easy to let your real self show through and give someone a chance to know who you are. There are times when a true sense of community can be found only in solitude.

Freshman year you woke up on a calendar day with ten minutes to get to class and sign that attendance sheet. Now you can shut off the alarm with one eye closed and roll over unafraid.

How many elbows have leaned on the wood of the desk, propping up a head filled with ideas far removed from the discovery and interpretation of the Dead Sea Scrolls?

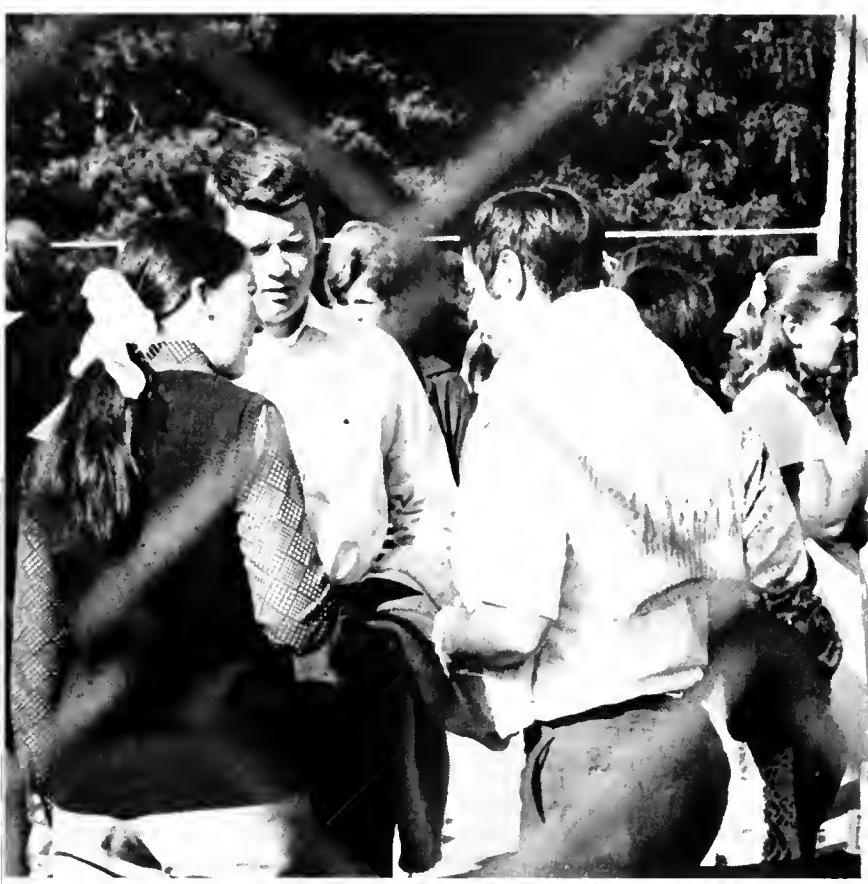

The day after the Juniors bring in their own jeans, t-shirts, televisions and records, they help their freshmen sisters carry in John Meyer skirt and sweater sets, The Iliad, The Odyssey and study lamps.

Mixers—"We were talking about the space between us."

It was the same old routine: bright clothes, forced smiles and nervous cigarettes. Then, ten minutes before the bus had to leave, he asked you to dance . . . and never got your name.

It sometimes seems that the Newton College sign is escorted off campus more often than any of the girls.

It is October and your outdoor classroom is filled with acrid smoke of burning leaves. At such a time you can even accept the Socratic method of the Academe without complaint.

The quiet hum of the library lends itself to everything educational, but is also conducive to napping.

In the abstract college is a mind-broadening, exciting experience. You come thinking in terms of celebration of life, growth and maturity, but the actual day-by-day living brings the rock bottom awareness that it takes an uphill climb to make it meaningful.

Going from the Stone Age to Christianity, things just had to get better.

When a book really excites you, regardless of the size of the print, or the number of pages, you know why you're here.

"There comes one moment in the middle of senior year when you realize you have been seeing it all wrong."

"An A on a paper really doesn't mean very much. It will mean a lot less in ten years. So where does all the excitement come from?"

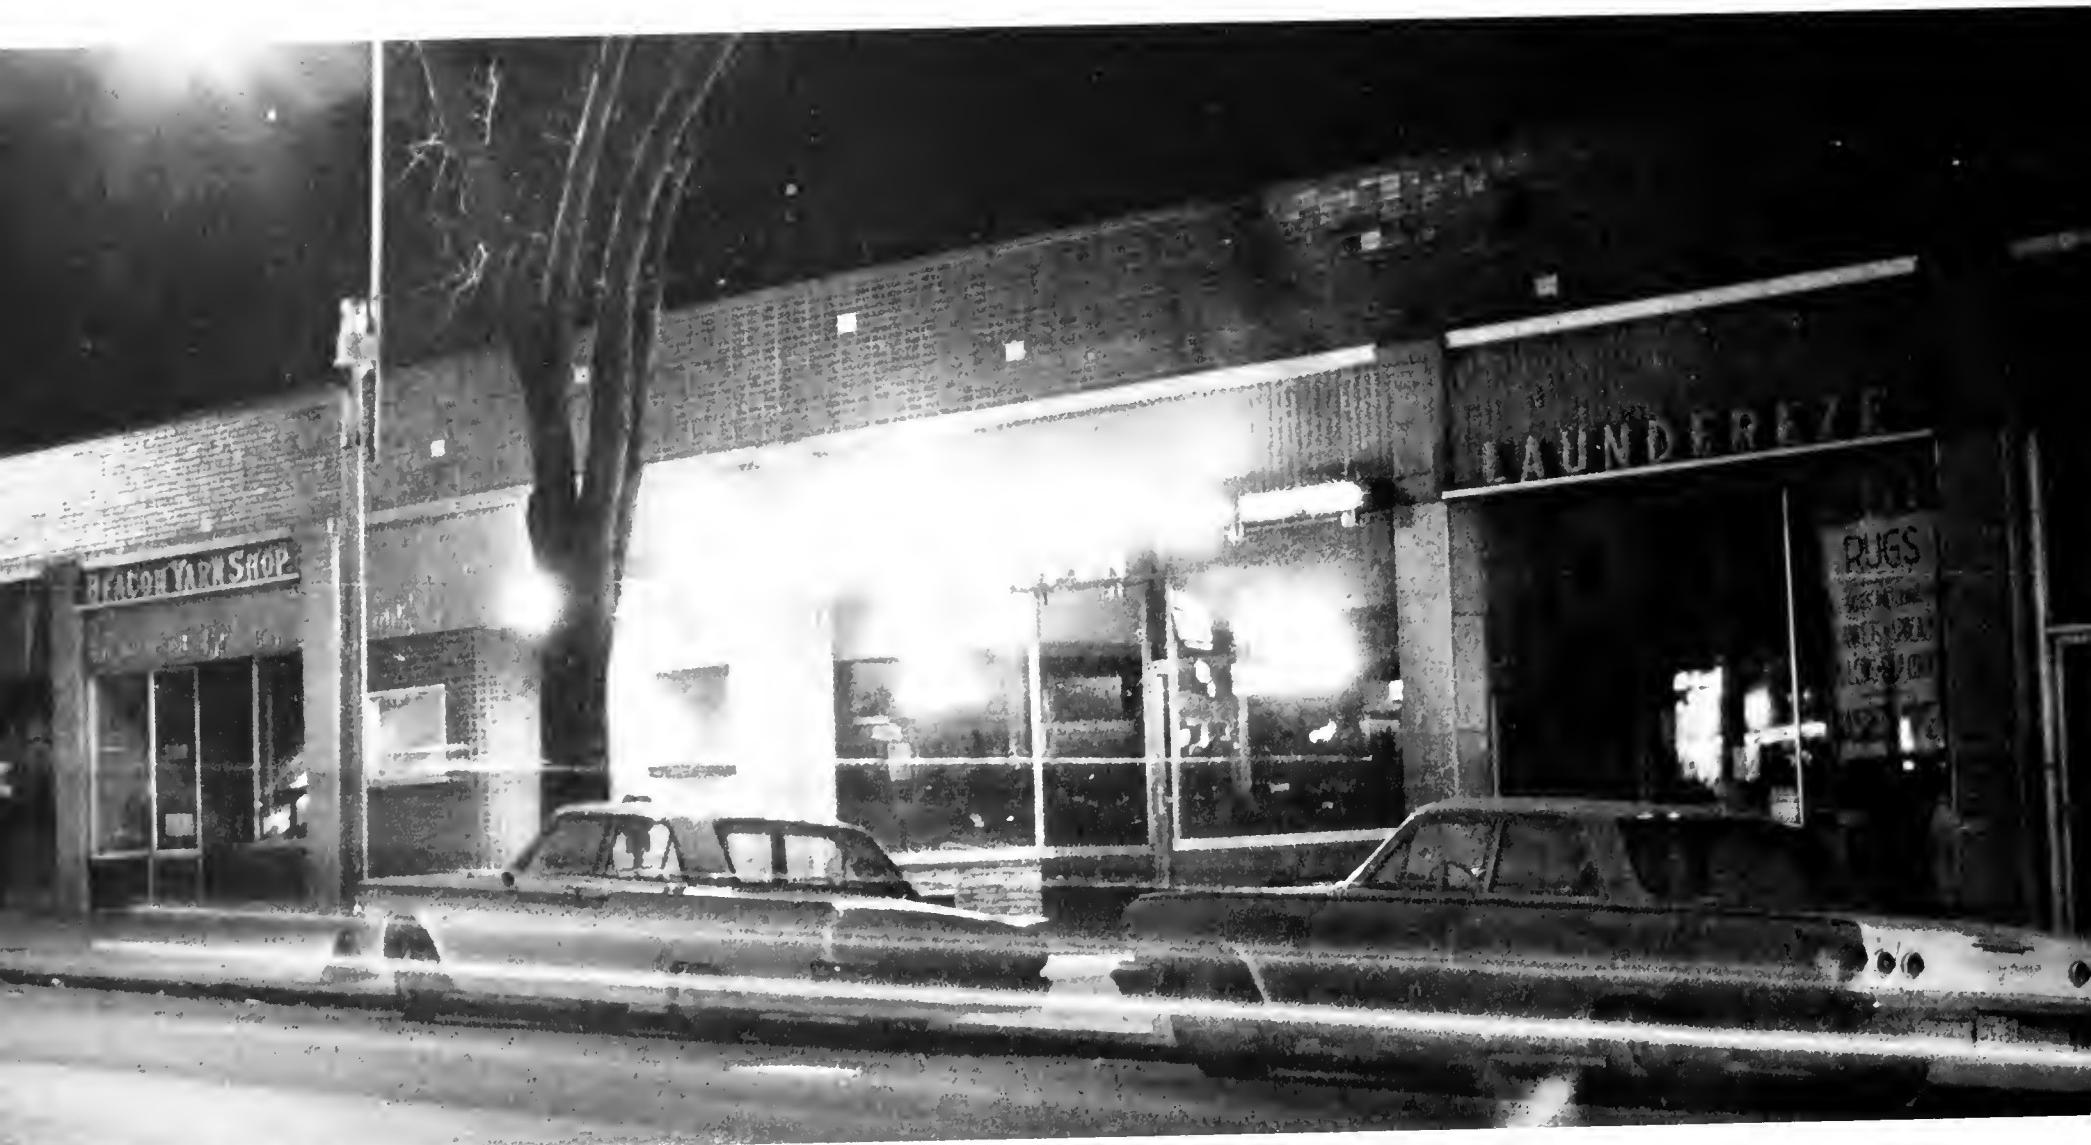

September finds you eager to learn—to read every book ever written, to get involved in your courses. By late October, you're behind in your work and tired already with seven more months to go.

You've been busy all day and haven't even started the paper that's due tomorrow but across the hall they're discussing situation ethics, so you bag the paper until 2 a.m. which is really your best studying time anyway.

The Tam doesn't look like much, you can't get in without proof, and the pizzas are lousy—but it does have a certain attraction.

NEWTON COLLEGE
says:

STOP WAR
NOW

Those who want peace in Vietnam are not just seeking an end to one specific conflict or even a reversal of U.S. foreign policy, but a change in human nature—is that such a bad idea?

Kenmore Square . . . Gardner Museum . . . Durgin Park . . . Pops . . . Haymarket Square . . . the Pru . . . Charles Street . . . the BPL . . . Filene's Basement . . . Government Center . . . The Museum of Fine Arts . . . the English Tea Room . . . Logan . . . Commonwealth Avenue . . . Newbury Street . . . the Wilbur Theater . . . the Charles . . . the MTA . . . the Ballet . . . the Common . . . Boston.

As a junior, you show your freshman sister Boston, talk with her about courses, and wonder how your first two years could have passed so quickly.

No one runs to the phone in her slip, or walks around in rollers, and most people make some attempt at looking and acting like ladies. You wait casually, wearing your best slacks, in your neat as a pin room, for your date to come for parietals and see how life is in a girls' dorm.

So many great things can be in your mailbox—tests, notices, library bills—so why is there always such a crowd in there?

As a senior, twenty-one years of age, you feel the need to reach outside, to be independent.
So you get a job waiting on tables and wonder if independence is worth sore feet.

You hear so much about commitment and involvement and you want to help save the world, so you start teaching retarded children on Saturdays and they end up helping you.

During all the NFL-AFL activity, Newton seniors and sophomores struggled for their own big win of the season. We lost as the Grass Roots, won as The Committee, and witnessed the crowning of four homecoming kings.

In class, we see them lecture, give facts, question, answer. Then we see them at the Student Senate, offering an interest and faith in what we are doing; we realize their human dimensions and that ideally we are all for each other.

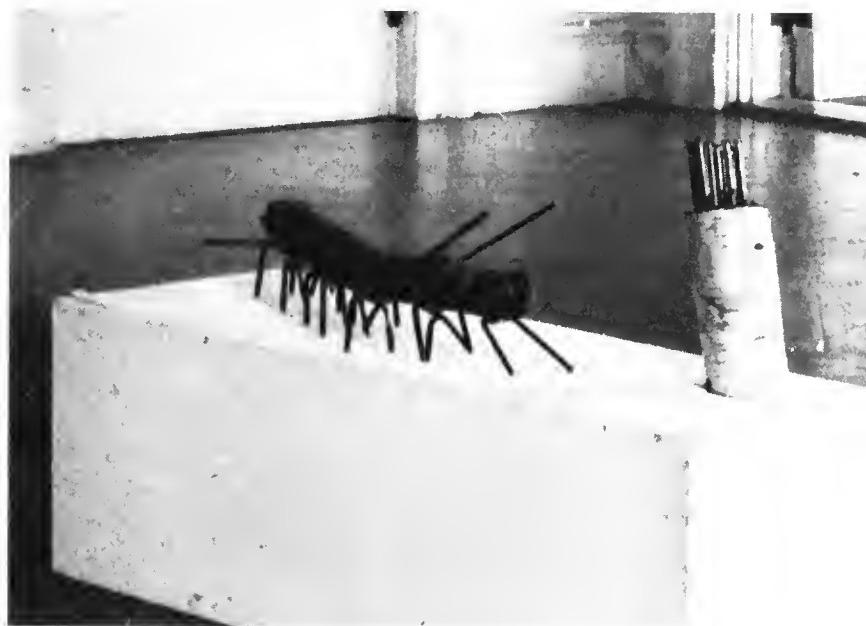

The few weeks before Christmas are a rush of snow fights, caroling, angels and mortals. You begin to look forward to lugging home that suitcase full of dirty laundry. But Santa Claus is still two papers and a blue book away.

It's another cold, grey March. The days have become habits: classes, meals, cigarettes, naps, WRKO. You've practically forgotten spontaneity. One day you're passing by the art building and on impulse you go in—a whole new world opens itself to you and you remember how everyday things can be made special.

"The artist is a sign to the whole world that reality or the world is shaped by man and not the other way around."

Friday starts the long anticipated round of dancing, listening, drinking, breakups and traveling. By Sunday, some people actually look forward to classes on Monday. Junior Weekend: The Agony and the Ecstasy.

Fine Arts Week is a wondrous thing, a kaleidoscope of events, colors and sounds. It evokes a community feeling that includes those of us who are less artistic. It seems to tell us that art is something in which we can all joyously participate.

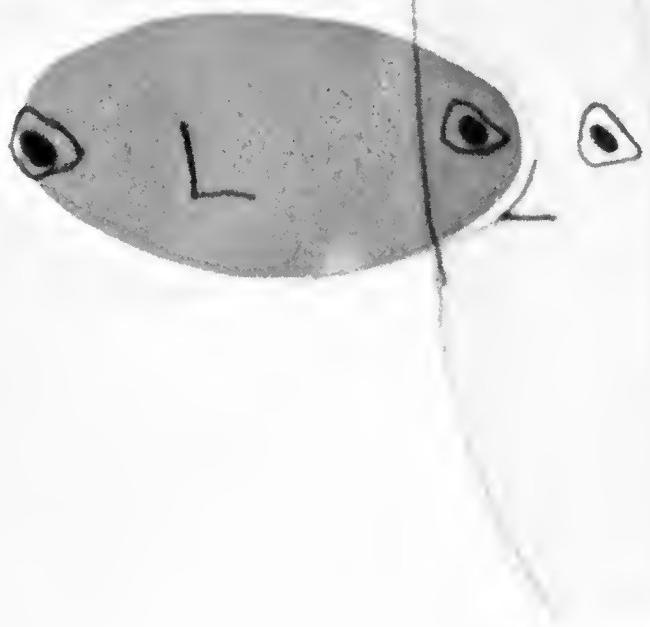

At the time, its purpose was to entertain, but in retrospect, the tension, the hard work, the fun of Freshman Show are seen more as the way in which a class comes together and shares its first impressions of Newton.

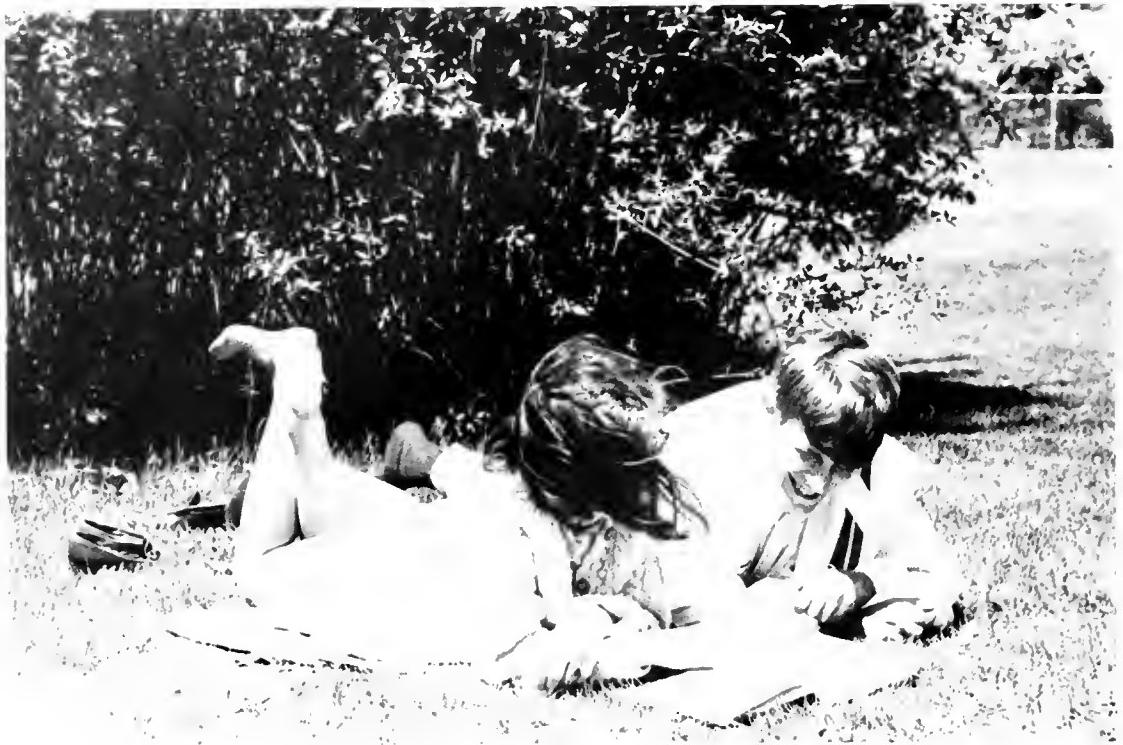

Senior year is different—the idea that next September each of us will be somewhere away from Newton fosters an ambivalence: we're somewhat afraid of the uncertain future and yet we feel the need to move out and meet the new challenges that await us.

sharing is sometimes seeing eye to eye . . . yet realizing that we each have another eye too.

Living with the same people on a day to day basis for four years, it becomes vital to remember that our particular differences are less important than the things we share.

Spring is the time when you can begin to enjoy the earth again.

HEART

This past decade has seen the beginning of provocative educational reform in the universities across our nation. Among the many changes directed toward a broader view of academic and campus affairs, curriculum change and student responsibility have been major issues. The arrival of Dr. Whalen on our campus has emphasized the additional need of the university to turn outside itself, to become a vital force in the community.

“You should above all things be glad and young,
for if you are young, whatever life you wear,
it will become you.”

Sometimes you remember that there is more to life than studying, eating, sleeping and dating.
You rejoice to find it.

*I remember when the answers seemed so clear
We had never lived with doubt, or tasted fear
But it was easy then to tell truth from lies selling out from compromise who to love and who to hate
                  the foolish from the wise*
